Items of Interest and Importance of Past, Present, and Future Among Official and Fashionable Folk.

Unusual interest attaches to the initial hospitality of the White House social season this evening, from the fact that this will afford Washington society its first opportunity to greet the new mistress of the Executive Mansion in her social capacity as first lady of the land. Moreover, the reception, one of the largest in the social history of the White House, is given in honor of the distinguished delegates to the Pan-American Scientific Congress.

More than 400 invitations have been issued, and with both telephones on their desks jangling with little demands for still more invitations, one can be heard to remark, "Another reception like this and we are undone."

The reception line will stand in the East Room. Mrs. Wilson will take her place next to the President, the Vice President and Mrs. Marshall will stand next, and the ladies of the Cabinet will complete the receiving party, standing in the order of their husbands' precedence. The reception will not only be a social event, but for the first time an official hostess, but for the first time Mrs. Lansing, wife of the Secretary of State, will take her place in the line, together with the President's daughter, Mrs. William Gibbs McAdoo, wife of the Secretary of the Treasury, and the Attorney General's daughter, Mrs. Watt Gregory. At the last White House reception two years ago Mrs. Bryan occupied the place next to the Vice President's wife. Mrs. Wilson was Mrs. Eleanor Wilson, and the office of Attorney General was filled by a bachelor, Mr. Reynolds, now justice of the Supreme Court.

Mrs. Wilson accompanied the President last evening to the Continental Memorial Hall and from a box overlooking the stage heard his address to the delegates. In the box with her were Miss Margaret Wilson, Miss Helen Woodrow Bones, Mrs. Howe, and Mrs. Cotnam. Mrs. Wilson wore a gown of black velvet, Miss Wilson wore white satin, with tulle and silver trimmings, and Miss Bones was in pink tulle combined with silver.

Mrs. Henry F. Dimmock entertained some 300 guests at a buffet luncheon this afternoon, when a number of her Washington friends were asked to meet the delegates to the Second Pan-American Scientific Congress. Masses of red roses adorned the table.

Mrs. Percy Quinn, wife of Congressman Quinn of Mississippi, entertained the Friday breakfast club today at George Washington Inn, where she is spending the winter. An early luncheon was followed by bridge. The members of the club present were Mrs. Thomas L. Gore, Mrs. James A. Reed, Mrs. Charles H. Dillon, Mrs. Lemuel P. Padgett, Mrs. Julius Kahn, Mrs. Joseph W. Byrns, Mrs. William R. Green, Mrs. Joseph Russell, Mrs. Fred Bennett and Mrs. Ashton C. Shallenbarger. The additional guests were Mrs. Quinn's mother, Mrs. Richard E. Connor, of Natchez, Miss.; Miss Dorothy Brown, of Kansas City, who is the house guest of Senator and Mrs. Reed, and Mrs. Carl Hayden.

Mrs. Quinn's niece, Miss Margaret Pelton, will arrive in town tomorrow to be her guest for several weeks.

Miss Dorothy Bennett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bennett, will be among the guests at the White House reception this evening, accompanied by her house guests, Mr. and Mrs. Wittmann and their daughter, Miss Eleanor Orr, of New Jersey, and Miss Deborah Seal, of Philadelphia. The guests came to Washington especially to attend the function at the Executive Mansion and Miss Bennett's debut at the Congressional Club tomorrow.

Lieut. Donald Nesbit, U. S. N., a cousin of Charles F. Nesbit, superintendent of insurance for the District, was married to Miss Nancy May Pike at Mr. Nesbit's home, 1811 Phelps place, on New Year Day. The Rev. Dr. John Van Schaick, Jr., officiating in the presence of a small company. Lieutenant and Mrs. Nesbit will reside at Warrenton, Va. Lieutenant Nesbit is a paymaster on the battleship Florida.

Mrs. Sayles, wife of Lieut. Comdr. William R. Sayles, U. S. N., naval attaché of the American embassy in Paris, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson O'Shaughnessy, Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Dr. and Mrs. Richard Derby, and Stephen Elkins were some of the prominent people of interest to Washington who were in the brilliant audience which filled the boxes at the grand opera in New York last night.

The Georgetown assembly will entertain at the second dance of the season on Monday evening, January 24, at the Lincoln Hall.

Mrs. William F. Dennis was hostess at a luncheon of fourteen guests today. The guests were Mrs. Robert Rogers, Virginia, daughter-in-law and house guest of Mrs. Dennis; Miss da Gama, Mrs. Hugh L. Scott, Mrs. George Barnett, Mrs. Thomas Lockwood, Mrs. John Temple Graves, Mrs. J. D. Gatewood, Mrs. Joseph W. Byrns, Mrs. William E. Borah, Mrs. Thomas B. Dunn, Mrs. Cone Johnson, Mrs. Joseph W. Folk, and Mrs. Wade Ellis. This party was the second of a series of luncheons which Mrs. Dennis is planning to give during the season.

Mrs. Charles C. Rossie, Jr., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Eury, at their home in Cleveland Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodbury Blair, who are in Newport, R. I., will return to Washington on Tuesday.

Miss Marie Adams will entertain about sixty guests at a dance this evening in compliment to her house guest, Miss Mary Rose Byrne, of Philadelphia. Miss Byrne will be the honor guest at a tea which Miss Adams will give on the afternoon of January 11.

The midweek dinner dance at the Army and Navy Club was one of the gala events of last evening. Col. and Mrs. George W. Meyer entertained a large dinner party, having as their guests Congressman and Mrs. Julius Kahn, Colonel and Mrs. Rodgers, Colonel and Mrs. Arthur, Colonel and Mrs. Winn, Major and Mrs. Rice, Major and Mrs. Ahern, Captain and Mrs. Wallace, Miss Frances Meyer, Colonel Richardson and Mr. Moale.
